Large Crowd Attends Program at Church

Thirty-nine Slides are Shown at First M. E. Church Last Night—Quartet Gives Special Music

Before each slide, the story of it was told in Scripture, and between a few of the pictures, a quartet composed of Mrs. O. L. Curl, Miss Ruth Houchens, Leslie G. Somerville, and Dr. C. C. James sang.

The program lasted about an hour and a half.

TUBERCULAR ASSN. TO BE ORGANIZED

IS DECISION COMMITTEE MEETING LAST NIGHT

SOME TIME DURING MAY

Misses Tobin and Horton Appointed to Determine Winning Schools of Christmas Seal Sale

Representatives from every township in the county will be asked to meet some time during the month of May for the purpose of forming a county tuberculosis association at which time a plan of work will be offered at the meeting. This is the decision of the committee which met last night, composed of Dr. C. P. Fryer, Leslie G. Somerville, Homer T. Phillips, A. H. Cooper, Misses Evelyn White and Margaret Davison and the representative of the state tuberculosis association, Miss Lula Morton of St. Louis.

This committee, with the exception of Miss Morton, will meet at a future date and set a time for the county-wide meeting.

It will be the purpose of this county tuberculosis association to stimulate interest in tubercular work in this county and there will be a source of revenue from which to draw for the carrying on of the work. About $700 was raised from the sale of Tuberculosis Seals last Christmas in Nodaway County and one-half of this sum will be left here for local work.

All the work to be done will be accomplished through the staff of the Nodaway County Health Department. The Health Department, among its several activities, has always made tuberculosis work a part of its business and it will continue to do so. However, it is thought that the county association will be able to give some assistance and have representatives from every district in the county to work in connection with the County Health Department in this endeavor.

Due to the lack of time at the meeting last night the committee was not able to select the schools that sold the most tuberculosis stamps per capita and decide to whom the cup and pennant should be awarded which the State Tuberculosis Association offered in this county.

Miss Irene Tobin, assistant secretary of the Maryville Chamber of Commerce, and Miss Gertrude Horton, secretary at the County Superintendent of Schools office, were appointed to look over the records of the tuberculosis seals last year of the schools that took part in the campaign in order to figure out the high school to which the loving cup should be awarded and to the rural school that should be given the pennant.

Mr. Phillips of the College acted as chairman of the meeting last evening and Mr. Cooper, also of the College faculty, was secretary.

A marriage license was issued today to Hugh A. Hill of Clarinda, Ia., and Blanche M. James of Elmo. They were married at noon by Dr. C. C. James at the M. E. Church parsonage.

TIME FOR SPRAYING THE APPLE TREE

SAYS R. A. KINNAIRD, COUNTY EXTENSION AGENT.

RECOMMENDS SOLUTIONS

For Keeping the Apple, Pear and Plum Trees in Shape—Printed Schedules Obtainable.

"Now is the time for the first summer spraying on apples and pear trees," according to R. A. Kinnaird, county extension agent. Mr. Kinnaird says the first application should be made when the blossoms on the apple trees have begun to show pink but before the buds are completely opened. The blooms should show pink about the size of a rubber on a lead pencil.

The material to be used for spraying the apple and pear trees, Mr. Kinnaird says is composed of one and a half gallons of commercial lime-sulfur solution and one pound of powdered arsenate lead to fifty gallons of water. The lime-sulfur is used for the control of apple scab and the arsenate lead for the destruction of early leaf eating insects, such as canker worms, etc.

For the second application of spraying on the apple trees and pear trees, Mr. Kinnaird says, should be made when about three-fourths of the blossoms have fallen from the limbs. The third application is due from ten to two weeks after the second spray application and the fourth application Mr. Kinnaird recommends for two to three weeks after the third application has been sprayed.

The same solution may be applied all during the season except in cases where the apples are affected with what is known as "blotch." If many plantlice are prevalent it will become necessary to add one-half pint of forty per cent nicotine-sulfate solution, which is sold under one trade name of "Black Leaf 40."

The next application of this solution is appropriate about the time when the blossoms fall off or when one would begin, in this case, to use bordeaux mixture instead of lime-sulfur solution, beginning with the third application, which is ten days to two weeks after the blossoms fall.

In order to adequately spray the trees a regular orchard sprayer is needed, Mr. Kinnaird advises. He says that the smallest machine to effectively accomplish the work is a barrel pump with fifteen to twenty-five feet of hose and an extension rod, eight to ten feet long, with an angle nozzle on the end of the rod. It takes two men to operate the machine.

Bulletins for complete schedule for spraying apple and pear trees can be secured free at the Farm Bureau office, Mr. Kinnaird announced this morning.

Mr. Kinnaird also gives a spraying solution that he recommends to those interested in spraying plum trees to prevent wormy plums and prevent the fruit from being destroyed by brown rot. He says that when destroyed by brown rot the plums grow to full size and then rot very rapidly and dry up from this cause.

The standard solution which is often used to control this disease is self boiled lime sulfur. It is made by mixing eight pounds of quick lime in

HUNG JURY IN THE VILES CASE

JURY AFTER BEING OUT THREE HOURS WAS DISCHARGED

JONES CASE SET OVER

Worth County Case Continued Until May 1—Two State Witnesses Were Absent

The jury in the case of the State vs. Steve Viles, on a charge of petit larceny, was unable to agree and was discharged late last night. The case went to the jury about 5:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon and the jury was discharged about 10 o'clock. It is understood the jury stood 6 to 6 on the first ballot, then 10 for acquittal to 2 for conviction on the second and third ballots. The last ballot taken was understood to be 7 for acquittal to 5 for conviction.

Viles was indicted by the grand jury on a charge of taking a sack of corn or about 50 cents worth from the crib of E. C. Culp, on his farm, southwest of Maryville.

The case of the State vs. Harold Jones on a charge of burglary and larceny, sent here from Worth County on a change of venue, was continued until Thursday, May 1, on account of two state witnesses being absent. These witnesses were Lewis McElvain and George Chapman and the court ordered an attachment to be issued for their appearance in court at that time. McElvain who gave a bond for $100 for his appearance at the trial of this case with W. F. Williams as surety is an important witness in the case. The court this morning ordered the bond forfeited and that scire facias be issued returnable at the next term of court to show cause, if any, they have why judgment should not be rendered against them on the order of forfeiture. McElvain was absent when the Jones case was called in circuit court here last January and an attachment was then issued and the case was continued until the April term.

Since the Jones case was continued, the petit jury was excused until tomorrow, when the case of the State vs. Harry Gray and William Helpley for petit larceny will be tried. Following the Gray-Helpley case, the case of the State vs. E. R. Davis for removing and concealing mortgaged property will be tried, and then will follow the case of the State vs. Ralph Ripley and Byron Estes.

Judge Guy Park of Platte City will be here Monday to hear the mandamus case of Frank A. Turner against the county court to get a pool hall license.

The damage case of Lee Barton vs. C. P. Dowis, et al, is set for next Tuesday. This case will probably take two days, it is thought.

Graham P.-T. Assn. in Final Meeting Tuesday

To Be Last Regular Session of This School Year—Schools to Give Program in Auditorium

The last regular meeting of the Graham Parent Teachers Association of this school year will be held Tuesday, April 29 in the High school auditorium. Officers for the coming year will be elected and the following program will be given by the Consolidated Schools of the District.

The Hickory Grove School, taught by John Hollar, will present a ten or fifteen minute play entitled, "Getting in Line," the scene of which takes place at Mr. Smith's grocery store. Mr. Smith is terrified when clean-up day is ordered by the mayor of the city He and his clerk, Tom Brown, are kept very busy in the store cleaning up, filling telephone orders, and showing courtesy to the customers who call.

Tom has many unusual experiences that would be common to a store clerk such as finding mice in the lard can, and the cat in the hamburger steak, but he sells these groceries to the customers anyway to save money for his employer.

Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. Abbott, customers, find many faults with the grocery concern and the groceries sold and finally convince Mr. Smith that to "get in line" and clean up would be a good investment.

The Hayzlett school, taught by Miss Pearl Riley, will give the following program:

Birds of my community—George Rosenbohm.

How to attract birds—Martha Marie Fleming.

Bird Nests—Vern Davis.

Demonstrations—Agriculture class.

The Lyle School, taught by Miss Nettie Moore, will give an exercise and Lola and Eula Acklin will sing, "The Birds Song."

The ladies of the millinery class will present a pantomine, "Before and After the Institute." Mrs. John Wilson has charge.

Everybody in the district is cordially invited to attend. Refreshments will be served and a good time is promised to all.

Boys Stole Hogs, Sold Them, Charge

3 Mound City Youths Caught and Confessed, According to Holt County Officials

(St. Joseph Gazette)

Lester Meadows and Clyde Meadows brothers, and Wain Pierce, three Mound City youths, were arrested on a charge of stealing several hogs from William H. Ricker, a farmer near Maitland, the night of April 15. Early on the morning of April 16, a truck-load of hogs was received at the St. Joseph stockyards, consigned to a commission firm by a young man who gave his name as J. R. Elders, Forest City. All of the animals were sold the first day excepting three. Later in the day the supposed owner of the hogs called at the commission house and was given a check for $47.29, the net proceeds of the sale. He indorsed the check and a young woman employed by the commission firm went to the bank and secured the money and gave it to him.

In the meantime, Mr. Ricker had notified Sheriff Albert W. Seeran, of Holt county, at Oregon, of his loss, and then came to the stockyards and identified the three hogs that had been sold. The Oregon officials then arrested the two Meadows boys and also young Pierce. A deputy sheriff and the prosecuting attorney, William Bissott, brought Clyde Meadows to the stockyards Monday and he was identified as the one who had represented himself to be Elders. After being grilled some time, and being told that young Pierce had confessed, he also made a written confession of the alleged theft, according to the Holt county officers.

The commission houses carry insurance to protect them in cases of this kind and Mr. Ricker will get the market price of the hogs.

The young men were taken to Oregon, where they waived preliminary examination, gave bond and were released to appear in court May 3.

The young men are all of good families, and have never been in trouble before, it is said.

Mr. and Mrs. Ova Goff of Barnard spent yesterday in Maryville with the latter's father, J. G. Grems, and sister, Miss Della Grems.

The True Story of Woodrow Wilson

BY DAVID LAWRENCE.

CHAPTER II.

Woodrow Wilson's Relations With Grover Cleveland—His Bitterest Fight In Princeton.

Turning back to those college days where as a student and a newspaper correspondent representing the Associated Press, the author came in constant contact with Woodrow Wilson, lecturer on constitutional government and President of Princeton University, there were unmistakable signs of the power of a great intellect bursting with a desire to break the fetters of convention and project itself into the controversies of the hour. As if with peculiar anticipation of later day events, the thesis which Woodrow Wilson had written when he received his degree of doctor of laws was a book on "Congressional Government" supplemented later by another work on "The State," both of which have been the standard textbooks of many college courses. His inaugural address in 1902 as President of Princeton University was a curious counterpart of subsequent appeals for service to humanity—he asked that Princeton dedicate itself to the nation's service. He was beginning to think more of a broader sphere of usefulness than the narrow confines of academic research. Himself a sociable person, popular with his classmates as a student, and later very highly respected as a professor and lecturer, Mr. Wilson veered constantly to the serious side of educational matters. His dissent with the modern method was that it prolonged to an extent the era of boyhood and did not always begin soon enough the earnest teachings of manhood.

I can see him walking slowly across the campus of Princeton attired in academic gown, meditating as he walked that autumn day of 1907, his eyes on the gravel path that lead toward Nassau Hall where the formal exercises opening the University for the year were to be held. Suddenly like a bolt from the blue a freshman fleeing from the clutches of a sophomore who was pursuing him collided head-on with the University President just as he was crossing in front of Marquand Chapel.

"I should think," he burst forth angrily, "that you would respect this sacred place and perform your pranks elsewhere."

Not long afterwards Dr. Wilson, as he was then called, proposed that this mild form of hazing or "horsing" freshmen (a name derived from "horse-play") should cease. It did not. Student opinion brought about some modifications but not until after Dr. Wilson had resigned was the custom abolished altogether.

It was during Woodrow Wilson's days as a student forty-five years ago that Greek-letter societies were forbidden at Princeton. Dining clubs in luxurious buildings came as a substitute but only members of the two upper classes were eligible. Woodrow Wilson's aspiration for a more serious application of students to the teachings of their elders turned him toward an analysis of the social system in Princeton. He argued that all classes, young and old, should mingle and that the influence of the tutors should be constant. Princeton had accepted with enthusiasm his reform known as the Preceptorial System whereby students were divided into groups of a half dozen members and given at least an hour a week of intimate study with a professor or preceptor in each course. But when Mr. Wilson proposed that the social life of the University be altered and that the Oxford "quad" system be instituted, the whole student body to be divided into a few units and each unit consisting of an equal number from the four classes, he encountered a stubborn resistance.

The Board of Trustees at first gave their tentative approval but subsequently held the matter in abeyance to canvass alumni sentiment. From that moment on it seemed as if Woodrow Wilson had found a greater opportunity than had been vouchsafed him theretofore. He made speeches to the students and before alumni bodies outside of Princeton and before audiences of various kinds throughout the United States discussing the needs of higher education with all the fervor that was later his in political life. He assailed what he called the "side shows" in the colleges and cried out that they were swallowing up the "main tent." He gave no quarter after that. He drew away from those who opposed him. Factions developed not only in the faculty but in the alumni associations of Princeton throughout the country.

In and around New York City lived a large number of influential alumni who had contributed by gift quite liberally to the support of Princeton University. Dr. Wilson accused them of "proprietory inclinations" and of wanting to impair the natural democracy of Princeton. He saw what in politics might have been called the "vested interests" crushing out those who would invade exclusiveness. Enmities developed which to his dying day were not forgotten.

One might have imagined from a reading of the diatribes of both sides in that controversy that Princeton was unlike other colleges yet, indeed, it had a social system admittedly more advanced than some of its rivals with the Greek-letter fraternities. Dr. Wilson's ambition was to make of Princeton an institution rivalling the universities of the old world. To him Oxford and Cambridge were productive of more serious minded students. He saw no objection in creating artificial social units. To him a college was not a social club but a place for earnest study with the social side an incidental consideration. To bring teacher and student into social relationship was his aim but the American youth, his opponents said, wanted to choose his own social companions and did not relish the constant presence of his masters.

So the battle raged when on top of it all there suddenly broke out another controversy. Princeton had always wanted a greater Graduate School. Two plans had been submitted, one by Dean Andrew F. West, providing for the building of a college about a mile away from the University and subject to a separate administration, and the other by Dr. Wilson whereby the Graduate College would remain an integral part of the University itself.

The bitterness of the "Quad" dispute persisted and almost the same lines of cleavage developed in the faculty and the alumni and the Board of Trustees. Grover Cleveland had been elected a member of the Board of Trustees shortly after he took up his residence in Princeton. Dean Andrew F. West of the Graduate School was instrumental in bringing Mr. Cleveland to live in Princeton. They were fast friends. As next-door neighbors they saw a good deal of each other. Dean West was Dr. Wilson's principal opponent. Grover Cleveland imbibed many of Dean West's ideas. in fact Mr. Cleveland was a member of the special committee of the Board of Trustees charged with the problem of planning a greater Graduate School. Woodrow Wilson as presiding officer of the Board of Trustees had occasion more than once to clash with Mr. Cleveland. At one historic meeting, Mr. Cleveland delivered a bitter attack on Dr. Wilson's proposals. Dr. Wilson stood for a minute with flashing eyes but controlled the temper within him.

"You will live to regret what you have said," he remarked bluntly and turned to the discussion of other matters.

When Grover Cleveland died in the summer of 1908, Woodrow Wilson was in Europe on a bicycling trip through England and Scotland. On his return in the autumn, there was a noticeable omission of any reference in Dr. Wilson's speech at the opening of the University to the death of Grover Cleveland. Nor did he order memorial exercises. It caused talk. It was characteristic of Woodrow Wilson. He lavished no praise where at heart he felt he could sincerely give none. He rarely if ever mentioned Grover Cleveland in public addresses. Although Mr. Cleveland was the last President of the United States who had been elected on the Democratic ticket and although the latter retained a large measure of popularity with the Democrats of the nation, Woodrow Wilson never sought to win the Cleveland Democrats as a legatee of Princeton affiliations.

Only once did Woodrow Wilson fear that his relationship with Grover Cleveland might work to his disadvantage politically. Grover Cleveland had written a letter to Dr. Henry Van Dyke, then professor of English literature in Princeton University, denouncing Dr. Wilson and calling him a man of "an ungovernable temper." The Republican strategists in 1912 tried hard to get possession of that letter hoping to have it published so as to wean away the Cleveland followers in the Democratic party and as an index of the Wilson character.

Dr. Henry van Dyke never gave up the letter. Woodrow Wilson and Dr. Henry van Dyke had had some differences of opinion on the Graduate School question but Dr. van Dyke refused to be a party in Governor Wilson's political downfall. On the contrary he was one of the first of the Princeton group to come out in support of Governor Wilson's candidacy for the presidency of the United States. Woodrow Wilson never forgot that. He later chose Henry van Dyke to be Minister of the United States to the Netherlands, a post at which he acquitted himself with particular skill in the trying days of neutrality from 1914 to 1917.

(Tomorrow's chapter tells how Woodrow Wilson was forced out of Princeton University and into politics).

BABY BUGGIES

You may have kept your baby's curls after he began to wear his hair like a regular man.

But how about his baby buggy?

That's as useless to you as congressional garden seeds to "The Man Without a Country."

You paid good money to get the cart and now you are giving it free parking space. Poor business! Rockefeller didn't get rich that way.

Some folks need a second hand buggy right today to "roll their own."

Sells yours now. Let the Democrat-Forum want ad do it for you. You can use the money you will get, can't you?

a tub or barrel; when it starts to slack it develops heat and at this period add about eight pounds of flower of sulfur by sifting it into the boiling lime mixture and stir until the slacking has been completed. The resulting solution is a smooth, creamy paste and has to be strained to remove the lumps. Then dilute to fifty gallons of water.

To prevent wormy plums and kill plum curculio one pound of dry arsenate of lead is put in. This is a tedious job to make such a solution for just a few trees and Mr. Kinnaird says that many orchardists now use the commercial lime sulfur on hardier varieties of plum trees, except the Japanese variety. When the solution is used on plum trees it should be weaker than that which is applied to apple and pear trees.

In case this is used Mr. Kinnaird says that one should take three quarts of lime-sulfur solution to fifty gallons of water and where it is impossible to secure lime-sulfur solution dry lime-sulfur can often be obtained at the drug stores.

When using the dry lime-sulfur take one and one-half pounds of dry lime-sulfur in fifty gallons of water. The first application of this should be made when nearly all the shucks have come off the plums which is ten days after the blossoms fall.

Another application may be made in two weeks and the third application two to three weeks after the second application of the spray.

Printed schedules may be obtained from the Farm Bureau office on plum spraying and also for the spraying of grapes.

SULPHUR CLEARS A PIMPLY SKIN

Apply Sulphur as Told When Your Skin Breaks Out

Any breaking out of the skin on face, neck, arms or body is overcome quickest by applying Mentho-Sulphur. The pimples seem to dry right up and go away, declares a noted skin specialist.

Nothing has ever been found to take the place of sulphur as a pimple remover. It is harmless and inexpensive. Just ask any druggist for a small jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur and use it like cold cream.

The curbing to be constructed and installed integral with the pavement, the same to have a base 6½ inches in width battered to 5 inches in width at the top, and to extend 6 inches in height above the surface of the pavement, to which the same connects, thereby making 6 inch gutters, the top of said curbing on the inside to be beveled on a 2 inch radius and also at the bottom where same connects with the paving to be beveled on a like radius, all as shown by the drawing of the cross section hereto attached and made a part of this resolution. The cost of the aforesaid paving, curbing, guttering, grading, excavating sub-grade and improvement on the aforesaid street to be improved as hereinbefore set forth, shall be paid for with special tax bills and a special tax and assessment shall be levied and assessed against the lots, tracts and parcels of land chargeable therewith in proportion to the front foot, to pay the cost of the same and only the cost of bridges or culverts, if any, shall be paid for out of the General Revenue funds of said City of Maryville.

Be it further resolved that this resolution be published according to law in The Democrat-Forum, a newspaper printed and published daily in said City of Maryville, Missouri, the same to be published for seven consecutive insertions, and if a majority of the resident owners of the lands that will be liable for the cost of the aforesaid improvements, at the date of the passgae of this resolution, who shall own a majority of the front feet owned by residents of said city abutting on the parts of the streets to be improved, shall not within ten days after the date of the last publication, file with the city clerk of said City of Maryville, Missouri, their protest against the aforesaid improvement, then the Council of said City will cause said improvement to be made, contract therefor and levy a special assessment against all the property abutting thereon and liable therefor, to pay for the same as by law provided.

If Back Hurts Flush Kidneys

Drink Plenty of Water and Take Glass of Salts Before Breakfast Occasionally

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which helps to remove the body's urinous waste and stimulate them to their normal activity.

The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of good water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they are no longer a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; can not injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this; also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

I will be in my office and optical rooms in Maryville, S. W. corner of Square over Hotchkin Book Store every Friday, Saturday and Monday only, as I specialize in optics; study all the time, keep up-to-date on the latest methods of refraction; do not fit glasses as a side line, on the three days named. Friday, Saturday and Monday of each week I can take care of every person in Nodaway County, who are in need of glasses.
